Security Tips on Using Internet Banking

Man: Why the money in my bank account has gone?

Host: You did not stay alert when using internet banking and have leaked your personal information, no wonder you are so shocked!

Hackers can use different means to install malicious programmes in your computer to steal your personal information.

Remember, banks will never ask you to log into their websites through hyperlinks in emails.

You should always type your bank website address into the browser directly, and ensure proper security measures are installed in your computer. Take every possible precaution against risk!

Don't waste time! Inform your bank right now!

Host / Super: Never worry about losing personal information by using internet banking carefully!
