

Reproduction of Hong Kong Currency Notes for Advertisement Purposes
(General Guidelines)

Under section 103 of the Crimes Ordinance (Cap. 200 of the Laws of Hong Kong), a person who, without the consent in writing of the Monetary Authority, reproduces on any substance whatsoever, and whether or not to the correct scale, any Hong Kong currency note or any part of a Hong Kong currency note, commits an offence.

In the light that there have been cases of counterfeit notes being accepted by the public as genuine notes, the HKMA and the Police have put in place appropriate approval procedures for reproduction of Hong Kong currency notes to guard against the passing of counterfeit notes into circulation.

It is not necessary to seek approval for “digital reproduction” of genuine banknotes, unless the electronic images of currency notes are to be reproduced into a physical form whereby the standard application procedures shall apply.

Application Procedures
